

5.1.2. Web-application view

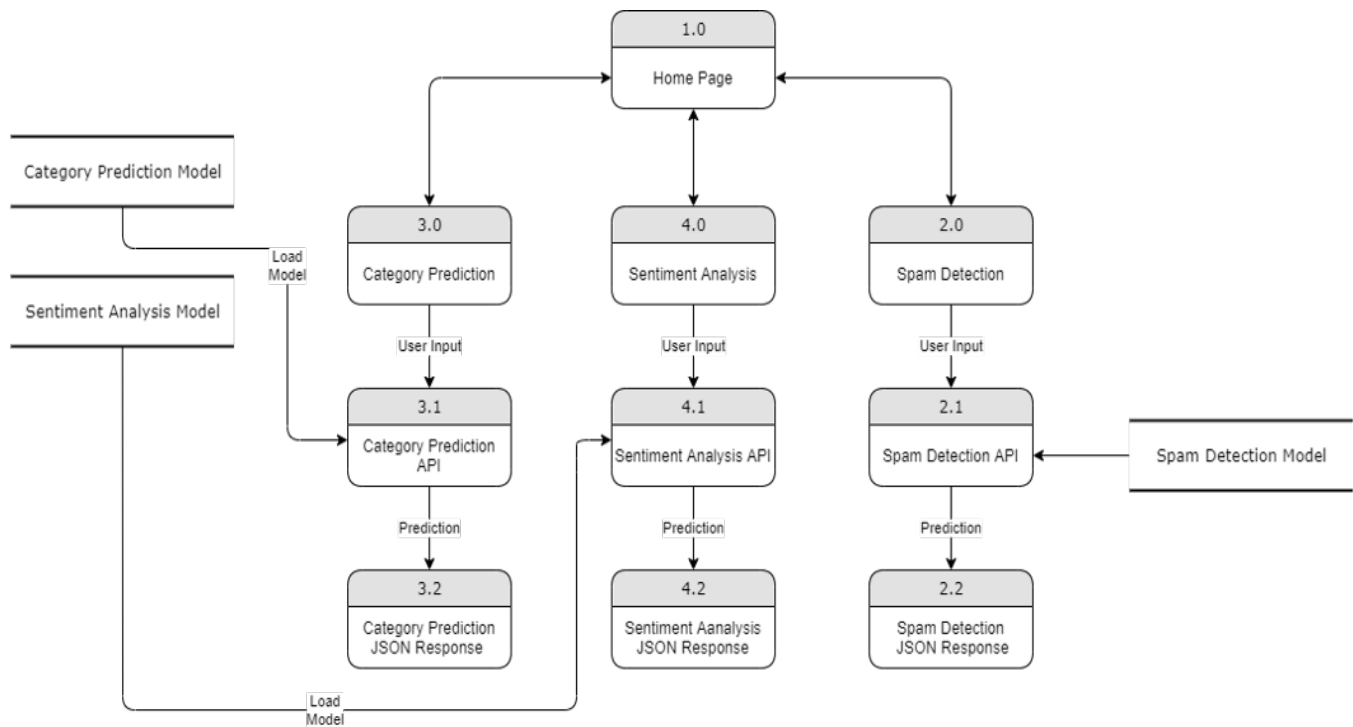

Figure 5.2 – Flow diagram, Web-application view

The flow diagram for the web-application view deals with how the different processes communicate in the web-application from server side to client side, and also how the server communicates with the models saved in memory.